

Poetic Thoughts from the Heart of a Father Vol. 2

Those who are encapsulated within the prison environment are undoubtedly inundated with a plethora of emotions concerning their confinement, family, and friends. Many are remorseful for the crime which they have committed. This compilation of poetic writings is an attempt to capture and express many of their emotions and feelings through the world of poetry, as experienced by one who has gone through the bitter vile taste of incarceration. It is written in an effort to present those who are incarcerated in a humanistic light, and as individuals who possess a degree of sensitivity. The author in no way wishes to give the impression that he condones the crimes for which those who are incarcerated have been convicted, nor minimize their severity, but to in some way attempt to convince the reader that within the confines of a place that is inundated with darkness, light is waiting to shine through.
